

2007 PLANTAGENET HAZARD HILL SHIRAZ

Review Summary

90 pts “If you're looking for a straight shooter, an Aussie Shiraz that is both tasty and in your budget, the 2007 Plantagenet Hazard Hill might be what you're looking for. Great looking fire engine red in the glass, this Shiraz is full of juicy black and red fruits, peppery goodness and very fine smooth micro tannins. This is a great party wine that all of your guests will enjoy. Best consumed within the next 5 - 7 years but could go longer.”

Jeff Lawson
www.midwestwineguy.com
March 29, 2011

89 pts – BEST BUY “Fragrant, wild fruit scents of mulberries and blueberries are light enough for the wine to feel vinous rather than jammy. A simple, peppery shiraz with lovely fruit that keeps on giving. For sausages off the grill.

Wine & Spirits Magazine
October 2009

89 pts “Supple and generous. Brims with blueberry and plum fruit, hinting at chai spices as the finish lingers.”

Harvey Steiman
Wine Spectator
October 15, 2009

88 pts “The value priced 2007 Plantagenet Shiraz Hazard Hill is an upfront, easy drinking wine that delivers pure, spicy red and black fruits, pepper, funky leather, and mineral aromas and flavors, medium body, and light, balanced profile. Tasting similar to a quality Côtes du Rhône, this delicious red is ideal for consuming over the coming 3-5 years.”

Jeb Dunnuck
The Rhone Report
June 2011

88 pts “Bright red. Lively aromas of raspberry, violet and tobacco, with hints of cracked pepper and herbs. Lush, smooth and fine-grained, with gently sweet red fruit flavors and no obvious tannins. Supple and very easy to drink, but with good finishing clarity.”

Josh Raynolds
Stephen Tanzer's International Wine Cellar
July/August 2009