

2010 SHOOFLY
SHIRAZ
Review Summary

90 pts – Top 100 Outstanding Values of 2012 “Polished and supple, this is brimming with red berry, black cherry and delicate spice flavors, all coursing through the expressive finish. Drink now through 2020.”

89 pts “Bright purple. Dark berries, woodsmoke and cracked pepper on the nose and palate. Very syrah in character. Chewy, focused and gently sweet, with good finishing power and lingering smokiness.”

89 pts/Very Good “This opaque and very dark purple colored Shiraz opens with a mild boysenberry bouquet with a hint of blueberry and gentle smoky oak. On the palate, this wine is medium bodied, nicely balanced, smooth and fruit forward. The flavor profile is a tasty black raspberry jam with hints of integrated mild oak. The finish is dry and its mild tannins linger nicely. This wine is very food friendly and it would pair perfectly with a pulled pork sandwich.”

Wine of the Week “The Shoofly Shiraz always delivers serious fruit-forward flavor at fair price points. The 2010 Shoofly Shiraz is no exception, bringing plenty of black cherry, plum, and raspberry notes to the glass with subtle tannins, nice balance and a touch of warm spice. This is an easy, everyday red that's priced right and perfect for serving with burgers, brats, chili, tacos, and lasagna.”

“The 2010 Shoofly Shiraz begins with dense earthy aromas of blackberry, mulberry, licorice, spice, black pepper and a little vanilla. Very nice. Tasting the wine reveals a ton of delicious juicy fruit plus a good layer of black pepper and spice that lasts all the way to the finish. Speaking of the finish, I love that signature Shiraz spice and this wine definitely has it. You'll also find sweet blackberry and a good dose of toasty oak (I'd let this one decant a bit before drinking it). It held up just fine on day 2. Excellent!”

“Aromas of ripe cherry, plum, and toasted oak. Plummy in the mouth with sweet baking spices. Fresh and appealing.”
