

93
POINTS

CHAPTER 24
THE FIRE
2013

“Once past the gingerbread spice and subtle oak presence, the 2013 Fire is like a platonic statement of Jory and Nekia soil expression, its pulpy red-cherry fruit given a dusty lift from that red-dirt grippiness. The tannin-acid structure is at once subtle and gentle, propping up a ferrous, volcanic minerality that lends grace, length and even lift to a subtly assertive wine.”

Patrick Comiskey, Wine & Spirits Magazine
October 2015

NATIONALLY REPRESENTED BY
www.obcwines.com

93
POINTS

CHAPTER 24
THE FIRE
2013

“Once past the gingerbread spice and subtle oak presence, the 2013 Fire is like a platonic statement of Jory and Nekia soil expression, its pulpy red-cherry fruit given a dusty lift from that red-dirt grippiness. The tannin-acid structure is at once subtle and gentle, propping up a ferrous, volcanic minerality that lends grace, length and even lift to a subtly assertive wine.”

Patrick Comiskey, Wine & Spirits Magazine
October 2015

NATIONALLY REPRESENTED BY
www.obcwines.com

93
POINTS

CHAPTER 24
THE FIRE
2013

“Once past the gingerbread spice and subtle oak presence, the 2013 Fire is like a platonic statement of Jory and Nekia soil expression, its pulpy red-cherry fruit given a dusty lift from that red-dirt grippiness. The tannin-acid structure is at once subtle and gentle, propping up a ferrous, volcanic minerality that lends grace, length and even lift to a subtly assertive wine.”

Patrick Comiskey, Wine & Spirits Magazine
October 2015

NATIONALLY REPRESENTED BY
www.obcwines.com

93
POINTS

CHAPTER 24
THE FIRE
2013

“Once past the gingerbread spice and subtle oak presence, the 2013 Fire is like a platonic statement of Jory and Nekia soil expression, its pulpy red-cherry fruit given a dusty lift from that red-dirt grippiness. The tannin-acid structure is at once subtle and gentle, propping up a ferrous, volcanic minerality that lends grace, length and even lift to a subtly assertive wine.”

Patrick Comiskey, Wine & Spirits Magazine
October 2015

NATIONALLY REPRESENTED BY
www.obcwines.com

