

2014 INNOCENT BYSTANDER
PINK MOSCATO
Review Summary

94 pts “Aussie moscato doesn’t come better than this. Bright fuchsia color with a fine froth of foam; pristine muscat aromatics and intense fruit flavor, which persists and satisfies, and doesn’t rely on sugar. Ageing: Don’t wait.”

Huon Hooke, GoodFood.com.au
February 2, 2015

90 pts “Bright orange. Ripe melon, peach and tangerine on the emphatically fruity nose. Plush and round on the palate, offering fresh honeydew and pit fruit flavors and a touch of candied rose. A citrusy nuance adds lift to the finish, which clings with excellent tenacity and powerful peach and melon character. I could drink this by the gallon, and at 5.5% alcohol it wouldn't be a hard task.”

Josh Reynolds, Stephen Tanzer’s International Wine Cellar
July 2014

89 pts “Bright neon pink. Heady red berry liqueur, tangerine and floral scents are sharpened by a peppery element and a hint of spicecake. Juicy, gently sweet and expansive, offering intense raspberry and cherry compote flavors that are reined in by a hint of tangy acidity. Finishes smooth and broad, with resonating red fruit and floral notes and good cling. This delicious, ridiculously easy-to-drink wine clocks in at 5.5% alcohol, by the way. It would make a great pairing with spicy northern Indian food.”

Josh Reynolds, Vinous
April 2015

GOLD MEDAL/CLASS CHAMPION

Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo International Wine Competition 2015

“This is a crazy, sinfully-delicious wine. Only the Australians could pull this off, and results are fabulous. This is not a delicate, dry, refined wine; it is exuberant, fizzy, somewhat sweet, pink fun.”

Frederick Thurber, Blogs.SouthCoastToday.com – The Wine Observer
December 1, 2014