

2013 JASPER HILL EMILY'S PADDOCK SHIRAZ

Review Summary

97 pts “Good color; deep and bright; a wine of immediate class, the bouquet with an expressive, complex array of dark fruits, spice and warm earth, the palate adding lively twists of licorice and bitter chocolate; the mouthfeel is outstanding, fine tannins and quality oak adding their imprint. The cork is high quality, promising it won't fail the wine for the next 25 years.”

95+ pts “Deep purple-black colored, the 2013 Emily's Paddock Shiraz and Cabernet Franc offers a tantalizing nose of crushed blackberries, mulberries and black cherries with hints of dried mint, chocolate box, sandalwood, marmite toast and roses. Solidly built with tons of muscular fruit and structured like a brick house, the medium to full-bodied palate gives layers of complex flavors even at this youthful stage and a very long finish.”

94 pts “Vibrant ruby. Highly expressive aromas of black and blue fruit, potpourri, incense and smoky oak, lifted by a powerful spicy overtone. Stains the palate with vibrant blackcurrant, bitter cherry and spicecake flavors, with suggestions of vanilla, licorice and dark chocolate emerging with air. Dense, vivacious wine with no rough edges. Closes silky and extremely long, with fine tannins and lingering sweetness. This very suave wine has the balance to age effortlessly.”
