

2013 GREYWACKE CHARDONNAY

Review Summary

GREYWACKE

Kevin Judd

93 pts “A bold, swarthy and complex chardonnay that has impressive flinty appeal, ripe citrus and peachy stone fruits, chalky nuances here too, quiet minerally. The palate’s bold, concentrated and has plenty of phenolic power driving rich lime and melon fruit flavors deep and long; very assertive.”

93 pts “Aromatic and expressive, with smooth cedar, toasted hazelnut, baked apple and poached pear notes, graced by accents of nutmeg, lemon meringue pie, fig and chamomile. The finish goes on and on, showing juicy accents.”

92 pts “This is a fairly big, weighty Chardonnay, but one whose alcohol levels are balanced by crisp acids. Aromas of smoke and toasted grains lead the way, followed by hints of whole wheat toast and lemon curd. The long, mouth-watering finish brings the citrus elements back to the fore.”

91+ pts “The 2013 Chardonnay has an understated, very classy nose of white peaches, fresh apples and lemon curd with hints of honeysuckle, almonds and baker's yeast. Medium-bodied, the intensity of flavors – both citrusy and savory – does not disappoint with gorgeous ginger and nut layers and a lovely long finish.”

90 pts “Bright medium yellow. Very ripe yellow fruits complicated by a sulfidey, leesy complexity and a hazelnutty nuance. Tactile, concentrated and strong, with a note of oak char adding another dimension without overwhelming the grapefruit and stone fruit flavors. At once structured and delicate. The Mendoza clone is high in acidity, notes Kevin Judd, and this wine always goes through malolactic fermentation.”
