

2012 CLOS CANTENAC

Review Summary

91 pts/Cellar Selection “Big and bold, this new-wood-aged wine is developing well. With mint aromas, coffee and toast on the palate and ripe blackberry fruits, it has a good future. It’s dense, solid and dark in character at this stage.”

Roger Voss
Wine Enthusiast
February 2015

90 pts “Martin Krajewski, the British businessman who recently sold Chateau de Sours to Jack Ma of Alibaba, purchased this four-acre property in 2006 and has since expanded it to 15 acres. Clos Cantenac comes from the original parcel, all merlot, its savory red fruit killed by oak’s sweet caramel and baking spice scents. Light, peppery and sleek, it’s ready to drink with filet mignon.”

Joshua Greene
Wine & Spirits Magazine
October 2016