

2013 KILIKANOON KILLERMAN'S RUN CABERNET

Review Summary

92 pts “Fresh, fruit-driven, well-mannered and well-structured. It’s the kind of mid-weight wine that will keep most red lovers well pleased.”

James Halliday
Australian Wine Companion
2016

91 pts – Editors’ Choice “Winemaker Kevin Mitchell has been gradually refining his style, pulling back on alcohol and oak without sacrificing fruit intensity. This is a fruit-driven Cabernet, loaded with black cherries and cassis and supported by restrained, just-right oak levels. It’s medium-bodied, softly dusty yet firm, with a surprisingly long finish.”

Joe Czerwinski
Wine Enthusiast
February 2017

89 pts “Bright ruby. Spice-accented aromas of ripe cherry and dark berries, with musky tobacco and camphor overtones. Taut and tangy on entry, then puts on weight and gains sweetness in the middle palate, offering juicy blackcurrant and chewing tobacco flavors and a touch of vanilla. Shows good energy and lift on the finish, which features a lingering black pepper quality and gentle tannins.”

Josh Raynolds
Vinous
March 2016

89 pts “Supple, with velvety tannins and a mix of plum, black licorice and spice box notes, lingering on the finish.”

MaryAnn Worobiec
WineSpectator.com
2016