

2016 JOHN DUVAL WINES PLEXUS MRV

Review Summary

94 pts “I’d really love to taste this wine in 3-5 years’ time. It’s pleasant now, its balance and freshness admirable, but it’s the potential for flavor and complexity development that is eye – or mouth – catching. It’s specific to this wine, the blend common enough, but often bland.”

James Halliday, Australian Wine Companion
2018

94 pts “Exotic and complex with notes of fresh lemon, roasted nuts, lanolin, lime zest and subtle oak. The palate is beautifully poised, with interlocking layers of classy fruit and savory tones. Perfect expression and composure. It is a satisfying, high-quality wine that is an absolute steal at this price. Enjoy now or age in the short term for further complexity.”

Toni Paterson MW, TheRealReview.com
November 15, 2017

93+ pts “Slender, direct, elegant and controlled. Indeed a far more elegant wine than this blend routinely produces. Built to age, you could also argue. Pebbly, spicy, stone-fruited and citrusy...”

Mike Bennie, The Wine Front
July 7, 2017

92 pts “A fresh and lively white with sliced lemon and pear character. Full body, bright acidity and a stone and licorice undertone.”

Nick Stock, JamesSuckling.com
July 17, 2017

91+ pts “The 2016 Plexus Blanc is fragrantly scented of honeyed peaches, beeswax, grapefruit peel and lemongrass with a touch of orange blossom. Medium-bodied with a lovely satiny texture, it has a refreshing backbone cutting through the expressive stone fruit and savory flavors, finishing long.”

Lisa Perrotti-Brown, Robert Parker’s Wine Advocate
August 2017