

2013 GREYWACKE PINOT NOIR

Review Summary

GREYWACKE

Kevin Judd

94 pts/The Top 50 New Zealand Wines of 2016 – #37 “A bright, crunchy and slightly earthy pinot that comes from the Southern Valleys of Marlborough, this has a spiced red cherry and smoky edge, raspberry and red plum too. The palate’s very composed and settled, the 20% whole bunch use is really nicely worked into the wine, tannins are assertive and yet smooth. The red cherry fruit has center stage, succulent, textural, clay soils deliver the right tannins here.”

91 pts “The 2013 vintage was a solid one for Pinot Noir in just about every corner of New Zealand. This is medium-bodied and slightly creamy-textured, with dark notes of cola, mocha and plum, spiced up by hints of cinnamon and clove. The lengthy finish is supple and velvety.”

91 pts “Pale to medium ruby-purple in color, the 2013 Pinot Noir has a beautifully fragrant nose of crushed cherries and cranberries with lavender, violet and dried leaves suggestions. Medium-bodied, the palate offers great concentration with tons of red berry and baking spice flavors supported by finely grained tannins and finishing long with an herbal lift.”

90 pts “Focused, supple and bright, with juicy berry, cherry and pomegranate flavors and details of cedar and hibiscus. Nutmeg and herb flavors gain momentum on the finish, where the velvety tannins become more apparent.”

89 pts “Medium red. Sexy musky reduction to the aromas of black cherry, raspberry, plum, earth, gunflint and spices. Fat, plump, round and generous; still a touch reduced and hiding its fruit but quite mouthfilling. Aeration brought out flavors of strawberry, red plum and spicy, cedary oak and a savory complexity. Finishes juicy and dry, with a serious dusting of fine tannins and very good length.”

Exceptional “Wine maker Kevin Judd has turned this brand into a go-to winner, notably with two Sauvignon Blancs (one that is barrel-fermented) that now have international fame. Judd also has a long history with this grape variety, and in this particular wine the exotic plum and spiced fruit is rather weighty and intense, yet the finish remains fairly elegant. There is a lot of wine here, and excellent potential four 4 to 5 more years.”

Exceptional “Very young and vibrantly fruity, this exciting wine offers deep cranberry and rhubarb aromas and has a smoky note from barrel aging, and so much complexity that it will age handsomely for at least a decade. From former Cloudy Bay wine maker Kevin Judd.”

“Most of the New Zealand pinot noirs that we see in Australia tend to come from Central Otago, where the style is generally quite muscular. This Marlborough wine is at the other end of the spectrum; more delicate and elegant, but still with plenty of black cherry flavor and smoky exoticism. It is fragrant and unmistakably pinot, with some bright fruit, savory hints and lovely structure. It’s made by Kevin Judd, the ultra-talented winemaker who helped propel Cloudy Bay to worldwide recognition.”
