

2014 d'ARENBERG THE TWENTYEIGHT ROAD

Review Summary

91 pts “Wines such as this suggest that McLaren Vale shouldn’t be satisfied with its grenache primacy when you come to the Rhone varieties. This is delightfully juicy/spicy, the tannins background mist.”

91 pts “Inky ruby. Mineral- and spice-accented cassis, cherry liqueur and licorice aromas, along with a hint of olive in the background. Juicy and focused on the palate, showing very good depth as well as energy to the bitter cherry, dark berry, spicecake and floral pastille flavors. Chewy tannins build steadily and lend shape to the finish, which shows intense mineral cut and emphatic, spice-driven persistence.”
