

2017 YERINGBERG CHARDONNAY

Review Summary

95 pts “Hand-picked, 30% whole-bunch pressed, 70% crushed and destemmed, 70% wild-fermented, matured for 11 months in barrel. Rich, round and supple.”

94 pts “Bright and expressive, with a laser beam of focus to the nectarine, melon and apricot flavors that are succulent, fragrant and juicy. A fresh thread of acidity heightens the opulence. The finish goes on and on, leaning into notes of candied ginger.”

92 pts “Attractively ripe peach and mango aromas here with a very intense palate that has such attractive style for immediate drinking.”

91 pts “Yeringberg’s Chardonnay always walk to its own beat, a throwback just like the historic winery itself. With ferments in French oak, it is opulent and toasty. This vintage is particularly aromatic and fruity, like the juice from canned pineapple, with some green rind notes there, too. Under that you’ll find honey and oak barrel. As it warms, the aromas and flavors knit more seamlessly together. The palate is rich and mouthfilling, but the acidity is bright and lifted, and the wood, ever present, is supportive.”

91 pts “Medium to full yellow colour with a rich, intense lemon juice, lemon curd aroma, and a high note of fluffy yeast lees. The palate is nervy and the acid a bit shrill, and the middle seems a tad hollow. There’s an estery note hovering over it. Some grapefruit, too. A pure-fruit wine - honest, if a trifle straightforward.”
