

2018 YERINGBERG CHARDONNAY

Review Summary

95 pts/EDITORS' CHOICE “This fabulous bottling from a historic estate, this wine offers masses of personality, complexity and class. It opens with a slight reductive funk that adds rather than detracts. Pure citrus notes are balanced by salt, toast and mineral accents. The medium-weight palate is a harmonious combo of crunchy acidity, talc-like texture and minerals. The oak is subtle yet supportive. “

95 pts “This is a lovely wine that combines flavor with delicacy and refinement. Chardonnay doesn’t have to be big and opulent with lots of alcohol. The bouquet is restrained and nutty with background stone-fruits, already building attractive complexity. Hints of preserved grapefruit and lemon peel. It’s medium-bodied and pleasantly dry on the tongue, with a trace of tannin adding extra backbone and cleansing the aftertaste.”

92 pts “I like the relaxed nature of this, an effortless confluence of apricot, white peach and stone fruit references across a swathe of vanilla-pod oak and a spurt of acidity. The core, nutty and nougatine. Ample flavour and a thankful tangent away from excessive reduction.”

90 pts “Apple, peach and citrus flavors are bright and juicy on a sleek frame, with details of white flowers and orange zest on the finish, a touch of sweet cream emerging.”

89 pts “Imbued with a trendy note of struck flint on the nose, Yeringberg’s 2018 Chardonnay builds on that with aromas of apple and citrus. Medium-bodied yet generous on the palate, it’s plump without being rich, round without being fleshy, then turns lemony on the finish. Drink it over the next year or two.”
