d'ARRY'S ORIGINAL

Review Summary

92 pts “This, for me, was always the best wine here. Today, though, it is hard to imagine just how much real wine is squeezed into a bottle for this sort of price. After all, Australian land and labour costs mean that we pay a price for top quality. And it is largely more than this. I stand corrected: kirsch, bramble, dark cherry and a weave of clove, pepper, anise and rosemary. The acid a bit perky, but still very good value.”

90 pts “This regional hero of value and consistency has plenty of ripe red-berry and plum aromas with some deeper, darker berries, too. The palate is mid-weight and has a gently grainy texture.”
