"This, for me, was always the best wine here. Today, though, it is hard to imagine just how much real wine is squeezed into a bottle for this sort of price. After all, Australian land and labour costs mean that we pay a price for top quality. And it is largely more than this. I stand corrected: kirsch, bramble, dark cherry and a weave of clove, pepper, anise and rosemary. The acid a bit perky, but still very good value."
