CLIMATE: The East Coast of Tasmania exhibits classic cool climate with cold nights and warm, mild days. The nearby maritime influence provides valuable protection from extreme weather, reducing risk of destructive frosts in the growing period. Generally, the weather runs from the west leaving Devil's Corner's vineyard in a rain shadow for much of the year allowing for near perfect growing conditions.

WINEMAKING: The grapes for this wine were hand harvested from two of Devil's Corner vineyards. Pressed gently to get the best free-run juice, the juice then underwent a partial indigenous ferment in barrel. The wine was matured in new and seasoned French oak barriques with occasional lees stirring to develop complexity and texture. Full malolactic fermentation was completed in barrel (26% new) during maturation.

TASTING NOTES: Sourced from two estate vineyards (one in Tamar Valley to the North and the Hazard Vineyard on the East Coast), this wine is complex and layered with stone fruits, citrus and cashew flavors. A generous mouth-filling texture and a racy cool climate acidity provides exceptional balance. The freshness and excellent persistence of flavor makes this Chardonnay easy to enjoy in its youth yet it will also soften and build additional complexity for 3 to 6 years.
