

2022 GREYWACKE WILD SAUVIGNON

Review Summary

GREYWACKE

95 pts/Editors' Choice “Winemaker Richelle Tyney and team have struck the perfect balance with this vintage of “Wild” which, hence the name, is wild fermented in old oak barrels. The matchstick and toasted almond aromas are there but instead of dominating, they’re tangled up with beach shell, seaweed and preserved lemon. The umami, seaside vibes continue on the palate, where a lovely texture and acidity are seamlessly threaded together. An elegant and complex wine.”

95 pts “The 2022 Wild Sauvignon is ever an elegant affair, and this year feels quite restrained in its outlay of fruit, oak and spice. I love this wine; it ages beautifully, and it shows the serious, more complex side of Sauvignon Blanc. This is highly recommended. 13.5% alcohol, sealed under screw cap.”

94 pts “Lots of character to this, with apples, pears, popcorn kernels and blanched nuts. It’s medium-bodied with delicious fruit and a flavorful finish. A serious sauvignon blanc for chardonnay lovers. Flinty and reductive at the end. Screw cap.”

94 pts “A stunning white, aromatic and supple, with wild fennel, quince, pear and green papaya flavors on a creamy frame. Aromatic details of mango and honeysuckle, with a whiff of flint, emerge on the finish, which just goes on and on. Drink now.”
